

BEFORE THE FLORIDA JUDICIAL QUALIFICATIONS COMMISSION

INQUIRY CONCERNING A
JUDGE, No. 03-14

---

AMENDED MOTION TO COMPEL PRODUCTION

Pursuant to Rule 12(a), Florida Judicial Qualifications Commission Rules, and Rule 1.380, Florida Rules of Civil Procedure, Special Counsel moves to compel the Honorable James E. Henson to produce certain previously requested documents, and in support says:

1. On January 16, 2004, Special Counsel served on Judge Henson its first request for production, a copy of which is attached as Exhibit A.

2. Request numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, and 6 ("the Requests") ask for:

1. All documents relating or referring to your representation of Diana M. Jimenez.

2. All documents relating or referring to your representation of Jerry Lee Thompson.

3. All documents relating or referring to your representation of Hector Rodriguez, Jr.

4. All documents relating or referring to your representation of Kathryn M. [Corneliussen].

6. All communications with Robert Nesmith relating or referring to your representation of Diana M. Jimenez.

3. Judge Henson objected to these requests on the basis of attorney-client privilege. A copy of Judge Henson's response to Special Counsel's first request for production is attached as Exhibit B.

4. On March 5, 2004, Special Counsel wrote to Judge Henson's counsel requesting these documents. A copy of Special Counsel's letter is attached as Exhibit C. As explained in Special Counsel's letter, the documents responsive to the Requests necessarily include documents filed with the court and communications with third parties, which are both inherently non-privileged. Special Counsel further explained in its letter that all documents relating or referring to Henson's representation of Diana M. Jimenez and Kathryn M. Corneliussen are non-privileged because both individuals waived the privilege.

Particularly, Ms. Jimenez waived the attorney-client privilege by filing a motion for postconviction relief on grounds of ineffective assistance of counsel regarding Judge Henson's services. See Arbelaez v. State, 775 So.2d 909, 917 (Fla. 2000) (defendant waives attorney-client privilege by filing a motion for ineffective assistance of counsel). Ms. Corneliussen waived the attorney-client privilege by filing a complaint with the Florida Bar on December 23, 2002 against Judge Henson regarding his services. See Fla. Stat. § 90.502(4)(c) ("[t]here is not lawyer-client privilege under this section when [a] communication is relevant to an issue of breach of duty by the lawyer to the client ... arising from the lawyer-client relationship"). A copy of an order regarding Ms. Jimenez's motion is attached as Exhibit D. A copy of Ms. Corneliussen's complaint is attached as Exhibit E.

5. Judge Henson still has failed to produce documents responsive to the Requests.

WHEREFORE, Special Counsel requests the Chair of the Hearing Panel enter an order compelling the Honorable James E. Henson to produce the documents at issue within five days.
